Best work.
Best teams.
At your best.

Meet McKinsey - Your Path from Engineering and Arts Science to Consulting

Ever wondered how you could use your Sociology or ECON knowledge in the real world? Or how taking four entirely unrelated physics courses pretending to be “just two courses” could be useful? You may be interested in a career in consulting!

We are excited to announce that McKinsey & Company will be hosting an event on Tuesday, October 5th to host an informational session for ArtSci and EngSci students interested in learning more about the world of consulting. You will hear first-hand from ArtSci and EngSci alumni how their skillset was key in solving the worlds toughest problem and how they made their way to consulting.

At McKinsey you could be:

- Rolling out a mobile ordering app across 35,000 restaurants worldwide
- Deploying advanced analytics to combat money laundering and terrorist financing
- Helping leading aerospace players future-proof their space business strategies
- Digitally enabling government services to better serve Canadians coast to coast to coast

McKinsey is a global management consulting firm with over 120 offices in over 60 countries. Consulting is a career that fits your calling. Problem solvers and creative thinkers. Engineers and new business builders. Put your talents to use where opportunities are truly limitless and every day makes a difference.

The session will take place Virtually on Tuesday, October 5th at 7:00pm ET. This session is intended for Arts & Sciences or Engineering science students in their first, second or third year of studies. RSVP using the link below by October 3rd !
